The murder of Robert Ross may result with Edward Murphy, ir, as did the defiance of the law and the courts result with John Y. McKane. Over 100 earnest citizens now have handed together to see that all of those responsible for this murder, whether high or low whether it is the man who fired the fatal shor or the man in authority who stood behind him as the chief director in the doings, shall be punished, and punished severely. Funds now have been subscribed to ald in carrying out the purpose. One of the first steps which will be taken will be to ask Governor Flower to assign a Judge who can be depended upon, and in whom the people have confidence, to conduct the trial and to secure the appointment of an attorney to prosecute the case more thoroughly than it is feared the present District-Attorney of the County would. To-morrow will be a day of mourning here in Troy, for then will occur the funeral of Robert Ross, who was brutally assassinated because he died to stand between the ballot-box and a gang of bloodthirsty Democratic repeaters. Mr. Speaker, these gentlemen have learned nothing. Do they not see the signs of the times in the elections of yesterday and the day before? The one bright spot of the Democracy is where there were corruption, ballot-box stuffing and murder. Lucas L. Van Allen argued this afternoon before the Cities Committees of the two houses in favor of the Coggeshall bill regarding the members of the New-York police force and increasing their salaries. He said the salaries had not been increased in twenty years. He wanted the bill reported so that action could be taken in each house, and the members could be put on record. He said that the proposed increase of salaries only meant the addition to the taxes of one-fortieth of 1 per cent.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Biandy opposed the bill. He said if the members of the force were not satisfied with their present salaries. Nearly all of them were receiving as much as, if not more than, they could earn otherwise. The city authorities are opposed to the increase of the galary of an official or municipal employe. Mr. Bandy said that because Assembly man Webster, at the request of the city authorities, opposed this bill last year, his desire to return to the Assembly was thwarted by the members of the police force. This was the spirit in which they came here in support of this bill, and they threaten to treat other public officials in the same manner as they did Colonel Webster if their deam for an increase in salaries shall be in the discretion of the New York City authorities.

MRS. ECOTIFS WORDS.

A special and remarkable meeting of the Salvation Army Auxiliary League and its friends was held in Association Hall, Fourth-ave, and Twentythird-st, last evening. Every seat on the main floor was filled, and nearly 200 persons remained standing around the sides of the hall. A large majority of the audience were not members of the Army or the League. Among those present were Eibridge T. Gerry, the Rev. Dr. Henry Wilson, the Rev. Mr. Farley and Mrs. Farley, the Rev. Mr. Campbell, Dr. Emmings and Mr. Elimore, of Flushing. L. L. Among the Army officers on the platform were Commander and Mrs. Bailington Booth, Majors Robert Perry, Emma Bowne and William H. Cox, Adjutant Edith Marshall, and Staff-Captains D. C. Marshall, Annie H. Marshall and Patty Watkins. Intense and unflagging interest was manifested by the audience, and applause, "Amens!"

and "Hallelughahs!" were frequent and hearty.
Commander Booth made a siliring address in which he presented some interesting statistics of the work of the Army during last month and last year in this city. Boston, 'hiladelphia and Chicago, Adjutant Marshall, who has charge of the League, experimed its workings, and at me close of the meeting the names of twenty new members were added to its roll of over 2,000, each subscribing $\frac{1}{2}$ a year, and promising to stand up for the Army whenever it was attacked in his presence.

Mrs. Booth made an eloquent address, in the course of which she said that it was the boast of the Salvation Army that its soldiers, clad in their uniforms, could go into liquor-stores, gambling dens and disorderly houses and be respected as bearers of a message of hope and love. They had come to be respected and protected by the lind come to be respected and protected by the rough classes. The speaker thought that half a dozen genuine New-York Youchs' were of more protection than a whole battallon of police, and that a little Salvation Army last could stop a street hawl better than a big policeman. The Salvation Army has been criticised and so had Dr. Park, hurst, but by those who had done nothing against vice, while Dr. Parkhurst and the Army had carried on their good work at the risk of their lives.

Mrs. Booth made an effective appeal for funds and furniture to establish a new Rescue Home for Fallen Women, double the size of the present one at No. 42 East One-hundred-and-twenty-third-st. About $1.00 was raised among the audience in sime rainfing from a cents to $100.

While the meeting was an estatusiastic one, it was wins ranging from 5 cents to $100.

While the meeting was an estimainatic one, it was remurkable from the fact that excessive noise usual at Army meetings was wanting. The only musical instruments used were a vicilo and piano, with which the singing was accompanied.
